[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

Washington, September 22.—The result of the circular issued to-day by the Treasury offering to buy 44 and 4 per cent, bonds at 108 4-19 and 125 respectively was awaited with apprehen sion by the department. Throughout the day proposals to sell came in at in-tervals, but they were for small amounts, and it was with evident disappointment that the announcement gate of offers at the prices fixed by the department was but $674,700. That he proposition to purchase 4 per cent tends at 125 was not generally regarded as an inducement was inerred from the small offering of 450,000 of these bonds; but it appears that the temper of the sellers had been miscalculated, for later in the day and after the first announcement, additional enders were received to the amount of 5.820,000, of which $500,000 were 41's. nd $2,320,000 4's. This raised the total of the day's purchases to $3,431,760, including $694,700 44's and $2,800,000 4's. Taking into consideration the fact that the circular was issued to-day and that the public had not fully had time to beome acquainted with its terms, the officers of the Treasury are dessed with the result. It was deemed set not to make public to-day the ames of the persons and firms who probable that this information wil be furnished hereafter. An Atlanta (Ga.) special says: The news from the country around Dahlo negs. in Union, Lumpkin, Dawson, and Forsyth counties, is to the effect that the moonshiners are thoroughly sroused and have made up their minds to run all informers out of the country. Several raids have recently been made by the revenue agents, in which the officers escaped under a lively fire from their concealed enemies. Chestertowee district, in Lumpkin county, is one among the most desperate re-treats of the moonshiners, having long been under their control. The half-dezen arrests made there within the last two weeks lead to the suspicion that one of their own members must be giving the secret away. This suspicion finally rested upon James Ash, who owns a small farm. Late on Saturday night Ash was called to the door, and at once found himself surrounded by a dozen disguised men, who warned him that the hour for revenge had come. They beat him over the head with their pistols until he was senseless and fell to the ground. He was then carried to a neighboring grove, stripped, tied to a tree, and lashed unmercifully. Next day, Sunday, he was found there by people on their way to church. His triends, satisfied that the next visit meant death, removed him and his family to Dahlonega, where he is in a critical condition.

TRYING TO HIDE A MURDER. The Victim Lost on September 1st-A Mystery in Webster.

A Worcester (Mass.) special says:
Miss Lillie Hoyle disappeared from her home in Webster, Mass., on the night of September 1st, and no trace of her was found until yesterday afternoon, when her partially-decomposed body was found in an abandoned corn crib in the adjoining town of Oxford. It was found by two men who were fish ing. The body was close to the roof from Liverpool. This train at full face downward, wedged in against the speed ran clean through a train laden timbers. The hands and feet were tied timbers. The hands and feet were tied together with stout double-strand pack ing twine, and the face and hands were badly decomposed. Both the hands and feet had been crossed before being tied, and around the head was wrapped a shawl and other clothes. It was ne-cessary to tear away a good portion of of the unusually large load of passen gers. It was claimed on the part of the express that there were no danger sigremove the body. • Lillie Hoyle was a bright, attractive young woman of twenty-two years. She had worked for three years in an ice-cream store in Webster and was well-known and popular in the village. She was of American parentage and was a member of the Methodist church choir. On the night of her disappear ance she left the store at 9:30 and went to the room which she oc cupied with her sister in the upper story of the block where she work Her sister was already in bed. took off her dress, put on an old faded satin wrapper, and saying she must go down stairs, left the room without hat, shawl, or wrap of any sort. Her uncle, who occupies the tenement in which the girls lodged, saw her go out, but that was the last seen of her by her friends. The ponds in the neighborhood hood were dragged and the mill-pond emptied in the search that was made for her. At the autopsy to-day no marks of violence were found on the nate girl met her death by strangulation. The body was so much decom osed that it was impossible to tell whether or not there were any bruises

The character of the young woman was good. She moved among respects ble people and was esteemed by them She had few intimate male friends s Roms, September 22.—The cholera returns for the past twenty-four hours twelve new cases and the content of the past twelve new cases and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the content of the night of her disappear and the night bouse on the night of her disappear ance, happy and careless as usual neither knowing nor fearing harm, that cases and eight deaths; Messina, 123 new cases and sixty-two deaths.

New York, September 22.—The stock market was much less active to-day, the linelination being to await developments in regard to the new Treasury policy, while the bears were not so prominent under the improved feeling on the street. The feverishness of the past few lays still remained, but fluctuations were much narrower than for a week past, and dealings cod paratively devoid of special feature, the circular of the Treasury Induced free buying for long account, which, with the purchases for foreigners, which assumed large proportions, opened the market very high. The home termind was seen supplied, though the activity and excitement at the opening were equal to say hings gene during the week. High flagres arought out free realizations and some resistance from the beart flagres was brought about. A venident feeling again found expression, however, late in the day, when another advance, the intended of the flagression of the second of the second of the flagression of the contended of the flagression of the flagression of the contended of the flagression of the f Oars. EXPLEW OF THE CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, September 27.—The wheat crowd to day were very much everylead at the opening because arrivals of spring wheat are grading low. This fact, to addition to the heavy covering of shorts late presenting, made a very stiff opening. As the day advanced the crowd got nerrous. Scalpers were disposed to be courish, but whenever the market got down a little there was such good buying of the cast which that they covered speedily. Favorable choles were somewhat counteracted by a total lack of clearances at New York. The agregate receipts at twelve points were $57,000 bushels; subpments, $72,000 bushels. The market showed signs of decline about the middle of the morning session, after opening at the closing prices of yesterday. At the month hour some local house began, to purchase Pecember quite freely, when there was smother effort with many to cover shorts. New Yorker's were alse known to be buyen. When becomber reached 75t, there were a lot of stop-orders. The builds feeling kept prices moving up for half an hour, when there was a slight reaction, making the closings about by, under the best point touched for the session. Corne was easier, in aymanthy with the weakness at New York due to the beiled. session. Corn was easier, in sympathy with the weakness at New York, due to the belief that about $,000,000 imposis were now on their way there. Arother element was the large arrivals here, and it was rumored that the railroad's were considering a further reduction in corn freights from Missouri-river points. When whoat firmed up corn also went up a little, shorts covering on any indication of strength. The opening was about the same as the closing prices of yesterday and under liberal offerings declined %aye. Later ruled firm, alvancing hable, then ruled steady, and closed a shade easier than yesterday, that were very tame, and fluctuations were so insignificant that no material change was quotiently large, being chiefy in lard. The receipts of hogs were liberal and prices were lockined to sell, but buyers operated sparingly, and the result was a decline of loc. on pork, 240, on lard, and 25475c, on short-ribs. These declines were however, afterwards partially recovered. The shipment domand was moderate for means, but 2,600 therees of lard were taken for export.

The Neck of the Giraffe.

[Good Words.]
In spite of its enormous length it only possesses the seven vertebrae which are common to nearly all the mammals. 220 bushels, Offerings to-day of wheat, 4,123 bushels; ame day last year, 6,564 bushels. Sales to-day f wheat, 2,254 bushels; same day last year, 221 bushels. Offerings so far this year, 27, 221 bushels. In consequence it is nearly as inflexible as a wooden bar of equal length, so that the many pretty pictures which represent giraffes curving their necks grace-fully, after the manner of swans, are indicronsly wrong. "But," said the objectors, "if it had so long and inflexible a neck it long and inflexible a neck it could not graze, and being a rumi-nant animal, would die of hunger." It is quite true that it cannot graze. It can only lower its head near the ground by spreadings its forelegs as widely as possible and drawing its hind legs under them, thus presenting a most ludi-crous aspect. In its native state it never, as far as I know, even attempts to lower its head to the ground, but in captivity it can be induced to do so by sying on the ground a large lump of sugar, of which it is inordinately foud. The fact is that it is intended to graze, not on the ground but on the leaves of trees. The scacia, or mimosa, is its favorite tree, and the Dutch colonists have in consequence called the acacia by the name of "kameeldorn"—f. e., camel thorn, they invariably giving the name of "camel" to the giraffe. This mode of feeding involves another anomalous structure. This is the tongue on which the giraffe is almost as much dependent as is the elephant on its proboscis. It is possessed of won-derful powers of extension and contraction, and can be narrowed until it almost resembles the corresponding or-
